

HAUPTMANN MAKES KNIFE, HOOK OF JAIL SPOON

SUPREME COURT DOCKET ONE OF HEAVIEST EVER

Several Cases of Interest To Entire State Are Up

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Illinois supreme court, which opens its October term next Tuesday, has on its docket probably the largest number of cases ever to be presented to the court for one term.

Ninety-three cases are on the docket, 35 on the rehearing docket, 71 on the people's, 60 on the civil, 23 on the certiorari, 33 on the appeal, and 12 on the compensation docket.

While the cases are many there are few of state-wide interest.

Utilities Sales Tax

One of the more important questions up for consideration is whether sales tax must be paid by public utilities on their gas, electric and water receipts. This case was won by the state in the Cook county circuit court and appealed by a group of the utilities. If the lower court is sustained state officials believe at least $6,000,000 annually will be added to the sales tax income.

The Jack Lieber case—already twice considered by the supreme court—is again before the tribunal on a rehearing plea. Lieber is the gun-toting hold-up man who was ordered released from Joliet penitentiary because he was indicted by a Cook county grand jury which was not selected in accordance with the statutory provisions. Following this decision, which caused great public protest, the supreme court reversed itself and held that the indictment was valid. Lieber is now asking for a reconsideration of the latest decision.

Wynekoop Appeal

The state is asking a rehearing in its efforts to re-open the first cases against former Governor Len Small and the later Lt. Gov. Fred Sterling. The supreme court has held these cases, originally brought in Sangamon county, can not be re-opened in Cook county as Attorney General Otto Kerner sought to do.

The appeal of Dr. Alice Wynekoop, sentenced to 25 years imprisonment at the Dwight reformatory for women for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, is also before the court.

The court will also be called upon to determine the constitutionality of a special session act diverting one-third of the gasoline tax receipts to the school distributive fund for eight months.

In many of the cases before the court no decision is contemplated at this term, as oral arguments are yet to be made following which the suits will be placed on the advisement docket.

OFFICERS OUT- NUMBER MOTOR-BUS STRIKERS

750 Police to Combat 75 Chicago Bus Drivers

BULLETIN

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Earl Renner, 40, was arrested today by state attorneys' police for the man alleged to have paid $10 for an assault on James Kelly, a bus driver, who died of his injuries.

The seizure of Renner ended a search which yesterday afternoon included a raid on a bus drivers' union headquarters, and the arrest of 65 men, who were questioned and released.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—More than 750 officers—estimated to outnumber strikers 10 to 1—were assigned as convoys and guards to maintain order today in the Chicago Motor Coach Co. strike that has been marked by two deaths.

Police announced that they have learned the identity of a man who hired three assassins to waylay a bus driver, James Kelly, non-striker who was shot and pummeled to death.

Three union men, arrested for the attack, confessed that they did it on the promise of being paid $10 each, police said, and one of them named their employer.

The attack on Kelly Wednesday was the starting signal for a series of disorders in which one woman died after an assault on her bus, another man was shot and several injured.

The bus company estimated today that only 75 drivers are striking, and that more than 400 persons have been injured during the six weeks of the walkout.

INQUIRY IS ENDED

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The department of commerce investigation of the Morro Castle disaster of Sept. 8 in which 132 persons died, was concluded today.

Wife Sees Joliet Farmer Gored to Death by Mad Bull

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—As his wife looked on terrified and helpless, Carlos Lantz, 54, a farmer, was gored to death by a bull on his farm. Mrs. Lantz telephoned to her husband's brother, two miles away, for aid. P. E. Ryden of Plainfield was called, but Lantz died before treatment could be administered.

Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—A post mortem examination was ordered on the body of John Anderson, 74, farmer, believed at first to have drowned. Anderson, police say they were told, had $50 with him the day before he was found dead.

DETECTIVE'S ROMANCE WITH NURSE

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The romance of police detective Louis Kolb, 40, married, and Bernadine Downing, 26, nurse, ended early today when the girl shot and killed him.

The two were sitting in Kolb's car in a dead end street on the south side. Miss Downing said at first that Kolb had killed himself, but later admitted the shooting to John S. Boyle, assistant state's attorney. She also, however, said that she had been seeing Kolb two or three times a week for a year and Boyle said that he will question her further in the belief that the shooting culminated an effort on Kolb's part to break off their association.

Miss Downing said she shot when Kolb tried to force his attentions on her.

Mrs. Kolb, mother of two sons by a former marriage, is soon to become a mother again.

"I suppose I fell as a wife if he went out with her," she sobbed today, "but we had never had anything but happiness in our ten years of married life."

Kolb's aged mother, ill in a hospital, was not told of her son's death.

Miss Downing said she did not know Kolb was married. They had spent sometime in a tavern before the shooting, she said.

TRAILS COLD IN SEARCH FOR MAN WHO SLEW CHILD

Murder Charge is Preferred Against Musician in Detroit

BULLETIN

Erie, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP)—A man and woman detained over night as suspects in the trunk slaying of Lillian Gallaher, 11-year-old Detroit girl, were released today after questioning by George Christoph, acting chief of police.

Detroit, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Two devious trails—both cold—were picked up today in the search for M. W. Goodrich, trap drummer, and his wife Florence, hunted in connection with the hammer slaying of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher. Joseph Penn, truck driver of Akron, O., was reported to have identified pictures of Goodrich and his wife as the couple to whom he gave a lift Wednesday night.

Simultaneously Earl W. Rinehart of Des Moines, Ia., said that two persons answering to the descriptions of the missing couple stopped Tuesday afternoon at his tourist camp.

Officers to Ohio

Only one of the trails—if any—could be the true one. Penn said he gave the couple a lift between Youngstown and Akron. Rinehart said the couple at his camp drove in from the east in an old sedan and departed to the west.

Detroit authorities, anticipating that the couple might reappear in one of the several Ohio cities they have frequented, dispatched detectives to the neighboring state.

A formal charge of murder in the first degree was lodged against the trap drummer, based on the fact that the mutilated body of the child was found in a trunk in the Warren avenue apartment occupied by the Goodrichs.

DEMOCRAT HAS SUED TO STOP FAIR PAYMENT

Charges Fraud in Republican Coup Constitution Day

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Republican jubilation over a $125,000 coup on Constitution Day at the World's Fair may be subdued today.

A suit to restrain the Fair from disbursing proceeds of the day and asking refunds to 322,000 ticket purchasers was filed in superior court yesterday by Attorney Manning L. Ware.

Constitution Day, though billed as a non-partisan salute to the constitution, featured a vitriolic attack upon the New Deal by ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri Democrats, as well as Republicans, bought special tickets little suspecting their money would swell G. O. P. coffers.

When the day was over, the Cook county Republican committee announced a net profit of $125,000 from sale of the special tickets which had entitled purchasers to one general admission and entrance to 22 concessions.

More than 350,000 jammed the fair that day, so many in fact, that Ware in his bill charged that thousands could not gain entrance to concessions for which they had bought tickets.

The number of tickets sold exceeded the capacity of the fairgrounds, and thus constituted a fraud Ware charged in the suit he filed in behalf of Alfred Blumberg.

Though Blumberg is a Democrat, Ware said, the suit is not sponsored by the Democratic party.

She was married March 17, 1870, to Charles Gilbert Smith, who, with three children, Oscar Wayne, Earl Becker and Catherine Gladys, preceded her in death. She was a member of the Peoria Avenue Reading and the Phidian Art clubs, and had a host of friends who loved her greatly. She is survived by her oldest son, Fred McKenney Smith of Chicago and his wife, Margaret.

Natural Curiosity Proof 'Cow-Sow-Hen' Farmers Of Northwest Have Cash

As evidence of the fact that farmers who practice the 'Cow-Sow-Hen' style of farming still have money on the farm, a unique natural curiosity is being exhibited by Charles F. Collisson, farm editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, who will deliver a free lecture on "The Land of Milk—and Money" to farmers of Lee and adjoining counties at the Dixon high school gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the Evening Telegraph, and made possible through the cooperation of the Minneapolis Tribune, the Dixon school board and Prof. J. N. Weiss, instructor of vocational agriculture in the local high school, who will preside at tomorrow afternoon's meeting.

The evidence Mr. Collisson is exhibiting is a Brown Thrasher's nest found on the farm of Enoch Peterson, a dairy farmer in Freeborn county, Minnesota, near Alden. Into the texture of the nest itself, the mother bird has woven a bright, new $5 bill. It is laid down as smooth and neat as a good housewife would lay down a bed spread. It could not be removed without destroying the nest.

"Enoch Peterson is one of the Minnesota 'Master Farmers,'" Mr. Collisson said. "He found this nest in the willow grove on his farm. Evidently the mother bird had picked up the money at nesting time, had laid it away carefully as the foundation for her home, a little nest-egg for her children."

"He is one of our farmers who represents the statement that all farmers are busted. He is one of those sturdy exponents of 'good farming with good livestock' who have found that this system lays down a cushion to light upon, when hard times come."

"He milks good cows and keeps a record of each one's output. He grows a rotation of crops, home-grown feed grains and corn, with clover and alfalfa to balance them and restore fertility. He buys the best breeding stock he can afford, and thus keeps his production high and his costs low."

"He puts up silage in a tile silo as protection against dry pastures and feed shortage. He presented me with this curious nest and said: 'Show that to those Illinois folks to let them know there's still money to be found on a livestock farm like mine in Minnesota, where we farm in the right way.'"

TRUSTY FREED FOR DEATH OF WOMAN CONVICT

Arkansas Crowd Has Cheer for Verdict of Acquittal

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Frank Martin went back to prison joyously today with a verdict acquitting him of killing Helen Spence Eaton, notorious woman convict, ringing in his ears.

Martin, a trusty guard serving a 21-year sentence for slaying a man in 1930, had been charged with first degree murder for shooting down the girl convict when she failed to heed his command to halt after her escape from the state farm for women on last July 12.

A huge crowd spontaneously cheered as the verdict was announced last night.

The state contended Martin, in a crouching position behind heavy logs, stalked that girl and killed her like a wild turkey.

The defense centered about Helen's "desperate character."

Mrs. Abram Ackert Follows Husband to Eternal Home

Mrs. Eva Ackert, widow of the late Abram Ackert, who passed away Sept. 10, died at her home, 1223 Third Street, at 9:30 o'clock last evening after an extended illness, which was extremely critical at the time of her husband's death. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and at the Congregational church at 2:30. Rev. Morton Hale officiating, and with burial in Oakwood.

Mrs. Ackert is survived by four sons and a daughter: Hal of South Dixon, Earl of Ellendale, N. D., Edward of Manhattan, Kas., Carl of Marion township and Mrs. E. A. Dohy of St. Louis, Mo.

ONE OF FIRST WHITES BORN IN CO. CALLED Mrs. Sarah E. Johnson Passed Away Thursday P. M.

Mrs. Sarah E. Johnson, one of the first white children born in Palmyra township, passed away shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the George Read residence, 707 Palmyra avenue, where she had made her home for the past several months. She was the last survivor of her immediate family, her son, Charles H. Johnson, having died suddenly ten months ago.

Mrs. Johnson was born September 14, 1842 in Palmyra township. Her first husband, Harley W. Jones, passed away in 1885 a few months after their marriage. Later she was united in marriage to J. Avery Johnson and the couple moved to Ashland, Ore., where they resided for a number of years. Mr. Johnson passed away during their residence at that place. One son, the late Charles H. Johnson, was born to this union. Mrs. Johnson was the daughter of Harvey and Sarah Morgan who came to this community in 1834 and established their home.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Staples chapel Saturday afternoon at 3:30. Rev. Gilbert Stansell, pastor of the First Methodist church officiating and with interment in Oakwood. The same pall bearers who served at the funeral of her only son will convey her remains to their final resting place: Robert H. Howell, Vernon Massey, William Nixon, A. C. Gossman, C. E. Mossholder and A. C. Dollmeyer.

HID PIECES IN LAVATORY AND BOWL OF CELL

An Unidentified Man is "Picked Up" Today by N. Y. Police

New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, indicted as the extortioner in the Lindbergh kidnap case, stole a spoon at breakfast today, broke it into four pieces, and, sharpened the bowl.

Sheriff John J. Hanley, who with District Attorney Samuel J. Foley, announced the latest development in the Hauptmann case, said with further sharpening the bowl of the spoon might have been used as a defensive weapon or one to do violence to himself. The sheriff declined to express himself as to what he believed Hauptmann intended to do with the pieces. The prisoner had hidden them in the toilet bowl and in the drain of the washbowl in his cell.

Made Hook Also

The handle of the spoon had been curved into a hook.

The spoon and a bowl were given Hauptmann and other prisoners in the Bronx county jail at 7:45 this morning, fifteen minutes before breakfast, a usual custom, the sheriff said.

After breakfast Hauptmann's spoon was missing and when the jailer asked him for it he replied he didn't know anything about the spoon.

"He was immediately taken out of his cell, searched and stripped," Hanley said. "His cell was searched minutely and no evidence of the spoon was discovered until the jailer looked into the washbowl and the toilet."

"He is now eating on paper dishes and he will use paper spoons so long as we have him," Hanley said.

Pick Up Unknown

An unidentified man was picked up at Second avenue and 84th street, Manhattan, today by four department of justice agents who took him to the Bronx district attorney's office for questioning. The agents were careful to say that the man was not actually under arrest, but they would give no further information.

The place where the man was picked up is in the Yorkville district, where some of the Lindbergh ransom money was passed at various times since the $20,000 was paid to supposed representatives of the kidnapers in the Bronx April 2, 1932.

Meanwhile, a plan to have Hauptmann examined by a psychiatrist was announced today by his counsel.

To Examine Prisoner

The lawyer, James M. Fawcett, made this announcement when he arrived at the Bronx county court-house to confer with District Attorney Samuel J. Foley, but he declined to give his reasons for the move.

"I am going to have my own psychiatrist see Hauptmann," Fawcett said. He added that his family physician would examine the prisoner at the same time in his cell in the Bronx county jail either today or tomorrow, and that he would be guided by his own personal physician in the choice of the psychiatrist.

Jersey Official Present

A visit by Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lanigan, of New Jersey, to the district attorney's office gave rise to belief that it might have to do with preparation of final steps to extradite the prisoner to New Jersey, the state in which the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped and killed.

Foley announced Lanigan's presence in the Bronx, but declined to discuss the purpose of his visit. Before he announced that Lanigan was in the Bronx, Foley said that New Jersey had made no move seeking removal of Hauptmann to that state.

However, the district attorney made it clear that if New Jersey did ask for removal "we will be only too willing to cooperate."

Examine Ladder

Arthur Koehler, wood technologist, arrived in Trenton, N. J., for further examination of the ladder down which the Lindbergh baby was carried from his nursery to his death the night of March 1, 1932. The technologist said the "unquestionable source" of some of the lumber used was the National Lumber & Mill work Company, in the Bronx, where Hauptmann once worked.

Dr. J. P. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the case, says "there will be an inquiry into the matter."

CONFESSON OF CHILD SLAYING THIRD OF KIND

South Bend Officers Have Puzzling Situation on Hands

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Detective Lieut. Granville Heckle announced early today that a man listed in police records here as Marvin Day, alias Marvin O'Day, had made a statement that he killed eight-year-old Marverine Appel in South Bend, Ind., in August, 1930.

The purported statement came after several hours grilling at the hands of South Bend and Jefferson City, Mo., authorities, aided by Memphis police.

The man booked as O'Day was taken into custody here Tuesday night after Jefferson City police had informed Memphis and South Bend officers that he allegedly remarked at a Jefferson City transient camp that he was wanted in South Bend in connection with the killing of a little girl.

PREVIOUS ADMISIONS

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Two men, one already confined in a state hospital for the criminally insane as the result of his statements, police said, have confessed they slew 8-year-old Marverine Appel.

But with the reported confession in Memphis of Marvin O'Day, 22, that he was the girl's assailant, police here discredited a previous "confession" of George Sherman Myers, an ex-convict now in a Michigan City institution.

Authorities said that as a result of Myers' mental condition, they had questioned the statement from the beginning. However, what effect the Memphis statement may have had on Myers' status was undetermined.

COMMUNISTS OUT

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—(AP)—The state electoral board today held the Communist party's nominating petitions are legally insufficient. Unless court action is taken, the Communist candidates will not appear on the November ballot.

Return to Gold Standard Only Way to Permanent Recovery, Council of Federal Reserve System Announced

Chicago, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The belief that permanent recovery from the economic recession is dependent upon a return to the gold standard is expressed by the Federal Reserve Advisory Council.

The council's view was made public last night in a statement asserting among other things that "no real or permanent recovery can be had, or can reasonably be hoped for, until the country has been placed on a sound financial basis."

Such a basis, it added, "necessarily implies a standard gold dollar of definitely and permanently fixed gold content, with other forms of currency redeemable at all times in gold bullion in the amount so fixed. The council believes that a joint or similar action by other important commercial nations is highly important and that such international action is extremely improbable on any other than a gold basis."

The statement, addressed to member banks of the Federal Reserve and given out by the Walter Lichtenstein, secretary of the council and vice-president of the First National bank of Chicago, said events of the past ten months have convinced it of a previous assertion that a return of the gold standard is necessary for real recovery.

At the same time the statement expressed opposition to any system of a "compensating dollar," declared the government can not spend its way to prosperity, and urged a balanced budget.

Moderation Seen in New Rules for Stock Exchanges

Washington, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The new rules for stock trading were generally regarded today as an attempt to steer a moderate course to avoid upsetting the apparent of securities prices.

In prescribing last night a sliding scale of margins ranging between 25 and 45 per cent, the federal reserve board adhered strictly to the standard suggested by Congress in the securities exchange act.

In the regulations for handling marginal accounts, observers also noted a tendency to avoid the "crack down" attitude that might disturb a market which is at a low ebb. For instance, officials declared the authority to force brokers to sell out undermargined customers would not be used unless developments made that necessary.

THE OLD CHURCH OF BARRAWAY

In cloak of shadowy grey it stands among the level lands.
That surge about like summer seas.
This little house of blessed ease.
Within the walls of rugged stone.
Gather a beauty all their own.
From sunset light that softly stain
With color each untinted pane.
One window shining open clear
Shows big farm horses grazing near.
Another frames brown cottage eaves.
Red chimneys, branches thick with leaves.
Another shows—oh, magic-dim
Against the far horizon's rim—
Ely Cathedral, tower by tower,
Vision-like, in the sunset hour.
Here amid scenes of lowly toil.
The ceaseless tending of the soil.
Beauty enchants those who pray
Within the Church of Barroway.

Skipping a Grade Will Often, Not Always, Burden Child

How much thought have you given to the problems revolving around the education of your children? What would you do, for instance, if school authorities suggested that your child skip a grade? Before answering, read this article written by Olive Roberts Barton for The Telegraph. It is the second in a series of, every one of which will interest you.

By Olive Roberts Barton
Sally rushes in screaming: "Mother, what do you think? I've skipped a room. Number 10 was too crowded, and they put five of us in No. 11. We had the best marks and Miss Bradley said we could make up the work in 5A as we went along. I'm in 6B now. Isn't that grand?"

Sally does a hop and a skip around the room.

"Why, that's perfectly splendid, Sally. Won't your daddy be proud? That saves you a whole half year of school. And to think you started to school three months before you were six years old. You must be the youngest in the class."

Faces Great Struggle
"I am, mother. I'm sure I am. Wasn't I lucky? If there had been four instead of five I'd have been left behind. My arithmetic pulled me down. I just can't get arithmetic very well." Her face clouds. "I hope the arithmetic in 6B isn't very hard."

"Never mind. I'll help you. You'll get along fine. I must go and call up grandma and tell her the news. She'll probably give you something nice."

So Sally goes back to school and a half year of struggle such as she has never known before.

From the first she was in water far over her head about the arithmetic. It seemed that every problem involved some process that the others had had in 5A. How could she find the selling cost of these apples in that simple looking problem without being able to divide decimals? How could she ever hope to know what the whole structure of the problem in building depended on the ability to find the least-common denominator?

She fell behind. Her monthly grades were heart-breaking. But her heart was not the only thing that broke. Her appetite went, she could not sleep, she lost her color and developed headaches. And still something else broke besides her health. Her pride. She was a good little sport herself but she could not bear to disappoint her parents and relatives who had expected so much of her. She had been astounded at the smart little girl who had skipped a grade.

Task Was Too Great
At the end of the term it was decided that she had better take the grade over again. It was too late. Sally never did get the abstract process work that happened to be the keystone of all later arithmetic. The whole mathematical structure was undermined, and all her school work thereafter was doubly difficult.

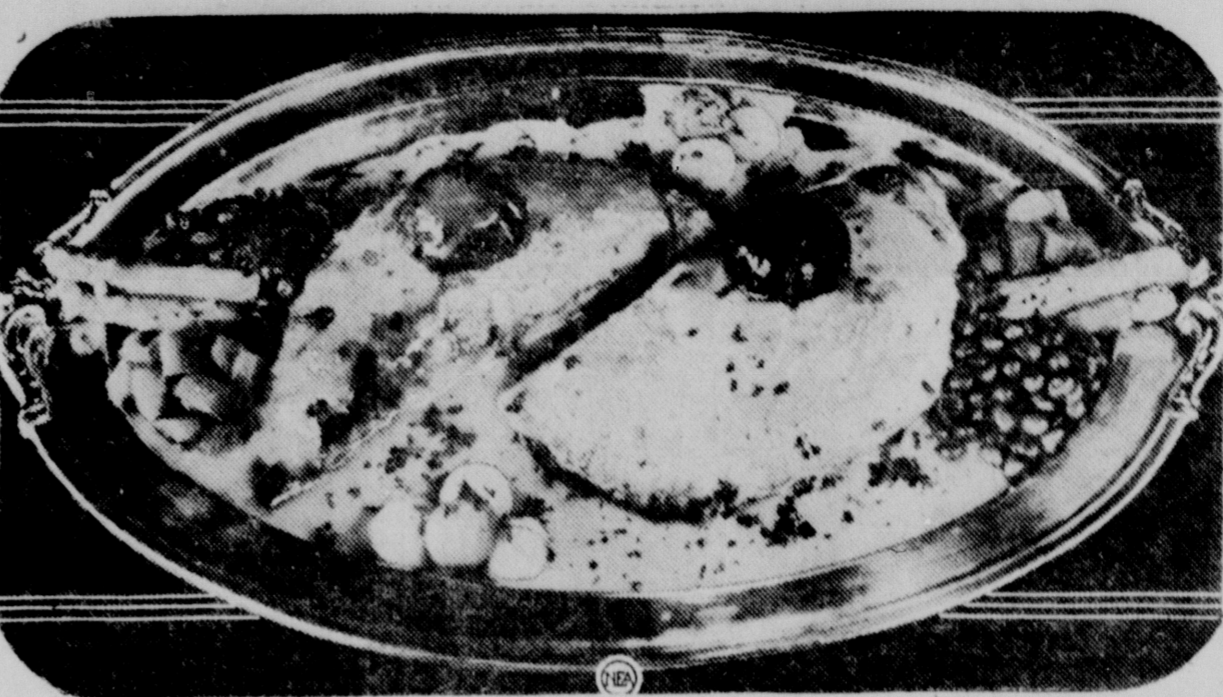

There are times when a child can skip a grade safely, but unless he is unusually capable, extreme care should be taken. The pushed child may be facing a task too great for young nerves.

While it is true that grade-school work seems to be too long and there is a possibility of shortening it at some future time, it will be done by specialists and treated as a whole with no missing links. Let us have a care in this matter of pushing children and loading them with worries far beyond their years. It is an empty honor that feeds on the health and happiness of the recipient.

Large Dahlias At Dr. Baird Home

Dr. and Mrs. Baird are both great lovers of flowers and do much work in their gardens. The Doctor says he does it for exercise, and is well repaid in the beautiful blooms which are

Turnover New Leaf on Chicken Here's Different Way to Serve It With Biscuit and Gravy

From Hotel Martinique, N. Y.

Because it looks so little like chicken, the turnover will be a delightful surprise.

By MARY E. DAGUE
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

So long as sister and brother lick their chops at the thought of fine chicken for dinner and argue for white meat and drum sticks, so long will the woman who must plan meals be on the lookout for new ways to prepare this favorite dish.

Not that the fried and roasted versions will be scorned, but the cook who takes pride in her art wants more compensation for her efforts than to see food disappear. The problem is to contrive new combinations of familiar materials that will win the unstinted applause of those hard-boiled table-side critics and that is something very worth doing.

I venture to say that chicken, roasted or fried, is served with biscuits and gravy 200,000,000 times a year in the United States alone, not to mention the fricassees and other versions. But you won't have any such staggering count of the occasions on which those same chicken, biscuits and gravy are combined to provide chicken turnover. So, with no extra effort, the enterprising cook can give the family a dish that will draw forth enthusiastic smacking of lips; and the problem of equable serving of the result of the care given them. Exceptionally lovely right now are the dahlias from his gardens, including reds of a crimson and deep maroon shade; one the color of the Talsman rose and a lighter lemon colored one with the outer fringe of petals tinged with pink, and many others. The dahlias measure across the face of the flower from five to seven inches, and are strong, healthy blossoms.

How They Are Made

This is how the chef of a famous New York hotel prepares the chicken turnovers:
1-3-lb. fowl
4 or 5 carrots
2 medium sized onions
1 head celery
2 teaspoons salt
1-2 lb. mushrooms
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour

To make the dough blend the following:
4 cups flour
1-2 cup butter
1-2 cup lard or other shortening
Teaspoon salt
1-2 cups water

Wash and disjoint chicken. Boil until tender with vegetables which have been cut in small pieces. When done remove and discard vegetables which were used to make the chicken deliciously savory. Remove skin and bones from chicken and cut in neat dice. Melt butter and saute mushrooms, which have been cut in slices, for five minutes. Reserve six fine mushroom caps for garnishing.

Sift flour over mushrooms and add diced chicken. Mix well and remove at once from the fire.

Beauty Aids As Gifts for Bride

By ALICIA HART
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

Beauty preparations and gadgets make ideal personal gifts to the bride. Naturally, she likes to receive linen, silver and household furnishings for the new home, but from her closest friends—the bridesmaids, for instance—nothing will please her more than cosmetic items not only for herself but for her guest room and bathrooms.

For instance, any woman with a home would love handsome perfume bottles for the guest room dressing table. Or one of the new atomizers with a top that fits real tightly, keeping the perfume from evaporating. To match the atomizers, there are beautiful powder jars that give a guest room an air of elegance.

Cologne or toilet waters in good looking faience make gifts that are sure to be appreciated. You might give the bride a cologne set, including several bottles of various odors, one for each bathroom. Or, if you would rather give something that she will use herself, make it a cosmetic kit she can take on her honeymoon and keep on her dressing table afterwards.

The newest traveling outfits are put up in leather cases and can be packed in a trunk or conveniently carried separately. Small items include only the necessities, such as one or two creams, a lotion, powder, rouge lipstick and cleansing tissues. The more deluxe types are equipped with most everything that a woman's complexion would ever need. And the preparations are packed in jars and bottles that can be refilled.

Chicken Roll

Another excellent way to serve chicken with biscuits is to make this same dough, which is much richer than the usual biscuit dough, roll it in a sheet and then spread with a chicken mixture. Then roll up like a jelly roll and bake.

Living Our Everyday Lives

CHEAPJACKS

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton)
Why play to the gallery? It is a cheapjack way of winning applause. It may seem smart, even clever, but in fact it is stupid. A man who shows off shows himself up.

Far better to be natural, genuine, real—just yourself, without any false airs and antics. The people who are really themselves are most attractive and lovable.

After all, if we find it necessary to put on "party manners" for the outside world, is it not an indictment of ourselves? Something must be wrong if we are not satisfied to be our real selves.

There are lots of people with a reputation for charming manners in public whose private lives are not quite so pretty. They scintillate in the limelight. In company they strut and pose to perfection, but they are far from it at home.

There they imagine "it doesn't count" and the thin veneer rubs off. They give generously to charity when they can do it with a flourish in the bright glare of publicity. But they pass a beggar on an empty street as if he were a stone image.

Nothing they do is genuine or sincere. Their pretty words, their "kind thoughts" come from the head, not the heart. They are nothing but cheapjacks playing to the gallery for the sake of the "good impression" they think they make.

They may fool the world for a while, just as a fake antique will fool ninety-nine people out of a hundred. But remember—there is always the hundredth man. The fake will never fool the expert. The bluff will not work for long.

Time tells the truth. A tinsel reputation will soon tarnish. Tricks of manner will not take the place of traits of character. The fake will soon be found out.

Above us, watching, judging, weighing our acts and knowing our motives is One who is not fooled by our foolishness. One who knows our pitiful unreality and fraud.

The cheapjack has his reward. He fools no one but himself; he does deceive himself and that is the pity of it. He could be so charming, but he only makes himself a joke.

All really great men are simple, real and natural—that is why they are great. They are just themselves, and that is why one is at ease with them. The Polish reveals the grain.

The Thymites were soaking wet and their new-found friend said, "I will get some wood and we will start a fire, so you can dry your clothes."

"Then you must tell me all about yourselves. You are strangers here, no doubt. It is lucky I was on the shore, to save you, goodness knows."

"We never can thank you quite enough," said Scouty. "It was getting rough, and we were heading for the rapids. Then we caught your net."

"We had floated round an hour or more, not knowing just what was in store. We've had a lot of thrilling times, but that is the worst one yet."

Then Coppy said, "I'll run and find some kindling wood, if you don't mind." "It's right beside my house," replied the woman, with a smile.

Real soon the wood was piled up high, and flames were shooting upward the sky. "Ah," Dotty said, "we will be dry in just a little while."

"While I am waiting, I can do another turn for all of you," exclaimed the kind old lady. "I will bring some milk and bread."

Soon every Tiny had a bowl, and Dotty said, "Well, bless my soul, I have never tasted better food." "Nor have I," Dotty said.

When they had eaten all they could, they ran and got some more firewood. It wasn't very long until their clothes were nice and dry. The woman then said, "Come with me. I have a plan in mind, you see. Perhaps you would like some playmates. You shall have some, by and by."

She led them to a great big well, and said, "I think it will be swell if some of you will turn the crank and bring the bucket out."

Two of the Tines cried, "We will! To work for you gives us a big thrill." The woman said, "That is fine! You will soon know what it is all about."

(The bucket brings forth a big surprise in the next story.)

When You Say That, Smile!

Herbert Marshall Didn't, So He Nurses His Jaw

Herbert Marshall, English film actor, didn't remember that "The Virginian" once said, "When you say that, smile!" When Marshall said "that" or something that sounded like it to John Monk Saunders, writer, shown in top photo with his wife, Fay Wray, Marshall looked as he does in the center square. He should have smiled as he does in the circle, for Saunders' fist crashed on Marshall's jaw, the Englishman went down, and Gloria Swanson, right below, often seen with Marshall these days, was a horrified observer. It all happened at Director Ernest Lubitsch's Hollywood party for a group of film notables.

Daily Health Talk

THE RAYNAUD'S DISEASE PATIENT

Raynaud's disease is a malady affecting mainly women. Its principal feature is an interference in the circulation of the extremities, due apparently to a sustained contraction of the smaller blood vessels.

The disease appears in several types and is classified according to the severity of the condition. One of the simplest forms of what is picturesquely described by the sufferers as "dead fingers." In this condition, some or all of the fingers when exposed to cold and damp atmosphere assume a waxen pallor.

In this condition, the fingers never become blue and there is little or no pain. The chief complaint is numbness and the unpleasant appearance of the fingers.

In the more typical form of Raynaud's disease, circulation is more markedly interfered with and the finger or fingers involved turn blue or cyanotic, and there is much pain.

The cause of Raynaud's disease remains unknown. Though some recover from it spontaneously, the general tendency is for the condition to become chronic, and at best, to remain in a stationary form.

The main complications of Raynaud's disease are ulcerations of the finger tips and thickening of the skin.

Cold is a contributing and provoking factor in this condition and practically all sufferers do well in a warm climate. Where it is not possible to remove from unsuitable regions, the patient should exercise scrupulous care in keeping the extremities warm and dry.

Occupation has a good deal to do with the severity of the condition, for it stands to reason that if the patient is not exposed to inclement weather, she will fare the better. Typewriting appears to be a particularly unsuitable occupation for those who suffer from Raynaud's disease.

Raynaud's disease can be treated surgically, the treatment consisting in the cutting, or sectioning, of certain nerves which regulate the contractions of the smaller arteries.

Paragon typewriter ribbons are best. Try them. B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

THE PUBLIC IS FIRST.

It is almost impossible to lay down any one general rule to cover all strikes. But in general it is true that the interest of the public ought to be paramount to the interest of both employers and workers; and once in a while a case comes up in which this is made exceedingly clear.

The electric power concern which supplies Des Moines and adjacent towns with light was shut down by a strike recently. For one night no lights were on. Hospitals had to care for patients by candle light. And so Governor Clyde Clyde L. Herring got busy.

Calling representatives of strikers and employers before him, he announced bluntly that the public was not going to put up with another night like that one. "We're going to have electric service tonight if we have to take over the plant and run it ourselves," he said. "We can do it, and we will."

Result? Twenty minutes later the strike was settled.

What goes on in the capital is of no great importance, one way or the other. Laws do not save a country. We are too strong and resourceful a people to be hampered much by legislation.—Henry Ford.

Women are just suckers for your money, and I don't think I'll ever have anything to do with them. — Jackie Cooper, film star.

The government would view the export of military planes from this country to Germany with grave disapproval.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

TODAY in SPORTS

DIXON HIGH TO BE INTRODUCED TO NIGHT PLAY

Football Team Will Play Under the Lights at Freeport Tonight

By ROBBIN

After having lost their first game to a strong Rock Falls eleven, the Dixon heavies have been going through a strenuous practice in preparation for the game tonight, with Freeport, at the latter's lighted field.

Freeport, playing their first game under their new coach, Dean Johnson, defeated Dubuque 13 to 0. Freeport has a heavy line with a light and snifty backfield. The blocking of the entire team is said to be the best and most efficient displayed by Freeport in a number of years. In their first game, left half-back Butler slipped through right tackle in the second quarter, and ran 74 yards for the first score. In the last quarter, George Las, right-half, intercepted a Dubuque pass and ran 47 yards for the second touchdown. He then plunged over for the extra point.

Took Good Whipping
It is true that Dixon took a second whipping in their first game but the team that they played are a championship eleven, and is rated as about the finest perfect working eleven in northern Illinois.

Coach Lindell has been looking over his squad for a couple of good tackles and some backfield men that can block. Rock Falls made most of their gains through off tackle smashes and when Dixon did get the pigskin in their possession, the ball carrier was stopped by the lack of interference. Lindell and the team are determined not to let the same thing happen against Freeport, and as a consequence the squad has had a tough workout through the week, with scrimmage every night until 5:30 or 6 o'clock, and on top of that, played a near-by school in a practice game on Tuesday after school.

The boys will have a new experience when the meet Freeport on lighted field. This is the first time that any Dixon eleven has played under lights. The squad was supposed to work out under the lights at the airport Wednesday and Thursday nights, but due to rainy weather conditions and a muddy field, practice was called off on Wednesday night. The squad is not afraid of mud or rainy weather. The preservation of the baseball diamond which occupies the space under the lights, was the reason practice was postponed.

Freeport is a larger school and has more candidates from which to select a team of eleven men. Dixon will be considered the weaker of the two schools. But the outcome of the game is yet to be seen. If the Dixon fans will sit tight and stick with their team, in victory or defeat, the boys will come out the better end, regardless to the turn of events.

SENIOR LEAGUE PITCHERS LOOK TO BE SUPERIOR

Cards and Giants are Better Off in Box Than Detroit

(By ALAN GOULD)

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

New York, Sept. 28 —(AP)—On the all-important platform of pitching resources possessed by any of the three clubs now in the world series speculation, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants each figure to have the call over the Detroit Tigers, champions of the American League.

Without under-estimating the twin stars of the Tiger staff, Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe and Tommy Bridges, baseball men rank them a shade below the prowess of the celebrated Dean brothers of St. Louis as well as the Giant aces, Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher.

On the combined basis of victories and earned-run allowances, the Deans top them all. Dizzy and Duffy, with their fireball flinging, have recorded 28 and 18 triumphs respectively for a family total of 46—one more than Ditz guaranteed his listeners while popping off in Bradenton, Fla., one balmy evening last spring. They have registered eight shutouts, including Paul's no-hit classic against Brooklyn.

Rowe Not So Hot
Rowe and Bridges have collected 45 victories. The Schoolboy sensation from El Dorado, Ark., projected himself into the spotlight with a record-equalling string of 16 straight triumphs, but he hasn't been bearing down so consistently since then and retired under heavy cannonading at the hands of the White Sox yesterday. Bridges has a world of stuff but it is subject to spells of wildness.

Schumacher and Hubbell show 44 wins to date. This is an improvement over their combined 1933 record. However, the figures do not reveal the current fact that both have been weakening in the closing innings, due to the strain of the pennant race. Hubbell especially has been as effective with men on bases as he was last year.

If the world series develops a prolonged scuffle, both National League clubs will have the advantage of stronger support for their twin pitching standbys. Whereas Mickey Cochrane will have to gamble on his brilliant freshman, Auker, or the veteran Alvin (General) Crowder, the Cardinals can call on N. J. Carleton, Bill Walker and Bill Hallahan while the Giants may rely on Freddy Fitzsimmons and Roy (Tarzan) Parmelee.

Parmelee
Walker has won only 11 games and Parmelee 10 due to late starts, but both have been pitching grand ball during the critical stages of the National League race. Parmelee in fact has won more vital games for the Giants than any other member of Bill Terry's staff in the last month. The world champions, without the big right-hander's rescue work, probably would have been obliged to kiss their pennant chances good bye a week ago.

Meanwhile, Walker has captured something like eight out of his last nine starts and seems entitled to a share of the credit being so lavishly handed to the Dean brothers.

Tiger faith in Manager Cochrane is such that his backstopping is expected to balance the battery scales in favor of the American Leaguers. There is good reason for his, inasmuch as Mickey outranks any of his catching rivals in the world series debate. He can impart confidence but not control to any of the fingers he handles and it takes the combination of both, at least, to produce winning results.

When it comes to skill in handling pitchers, Gus Mancuso of the Giants will yield nothing to Cochrane or to Bill Delancey and Virgil Davis, the St. Louis backstopping pair. Mancuso does not compare with any of his rivals as a slugger but he has a knack of pulling the Giants together in tough spots and exercising good judgment in respect to opposing hitters or base-runners.

Here are the won and lost figures on the main pitching rivals:

Detroit — Rowe, 24-8; Bridges, 21-11; Marberry 15-5; Auker, 15-7; Crowder, 8-11 (Crowder won 4, lost 10 with 10 Senators.)

New York — Schumacher, 23-9; Hubbell, 21-12; Fitzsimmons, 18-14; Parmelee 10-5.

St. Louis — J. Dean 28-7; P. Dean 18-11; Carleton 16-11; Walker 12-4; Hallahan 8-12.

BIG TEN HOPEFULS GET THEIR TRIAL SATURDAY

Will Demonstrate How Far They Have Progressed in Work

Chicago, Sept. 28 —(AP)—How far the gridiron hopefuls at Northwestern, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Chicago, have progressed with their lessons during the past two weeks will be determined tomorrow.

Northwestern, with a wealth of classy sophomore material, will depend, at the start at least, on veterans in its opening battle against Marquette. Coach Dick Hanley plans to use only one first-year player, halfback Bob Swisher, in his starting lineup. If the veterans are able to work up a lead, the rest of the green talent will be tested under actual battle conditions.

The pre-season favorite to win the championship — if Michigan doesn't—Minnesota, will be at top strength against North Dakota State. Dale Rennebohm, first string center, and George Rennix, a seasoned halfback, have overcome scholastic difficulties in time to be available for the inaugural test.

Iowa also got its regular center back on the job in time for the opening of the campaign against South Dakota. Ted Omaloski, having recovered from a leg infection, The Hawkeyes will go with three veterans, Captain Russ Fisher, Dwight Hoover and Dick Crayne, and a sophomore, Ozzie Simmons, in the backfield.

Coach Clerk Shaughnessy probably will wait until after today's drill to select Chicago's starting eleven against Carroll College. He has shifted his first and second string back and forth every day since scrimmage, and the boys' work has been so spirited recently that he hasn't been able to decide on the first string. Tom Flinn, reserve quarterback, suffered an arm injury yesterday and may be off duty for a week.

Bo Finds Kicker
The kicking of Ettore Antonini, an end, in yesterday's drill, brightened the situation at Indiana, which meets Ohio University Saturday. Coach Bo McMillin found Antonini in a free for all search Huffman who was injured Tuesday to locate a successor for Vernon day.

Willis Ward, Michigan's tall Negro end was tried in the Wolverine backfield yesterday, and impressed Harry Kipke with his speed. An

DISTRICT BAR ASSN. TO MEET TOMORROW A. M.

All Day Session to be Held in DeKalb Masonic Temple

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Federation of Local Bar Associations for the sixth Supreme Judicial District of this state will be held at DeKalb Saturday according to an announcement made by John R. Snively, Rockford attorney, who is Secretary of the Federation.

The meeting will convene at the new Masonic Temple at 10 o'clock in the morning. This session will be featured by a discussion of the proposed Criminal Code by Harry M. Fisher of Chicago. Judge Fisher is a member of the Cook County Judicial Advisory Council and is one of the leaders in this statewide movement.

There will be a luncheon at 12:30. James S. Baldwin of Decatur, president of the Illinois State Bar, a former judge of the Circuit Court at Decatur for many years. He will be followed by Honorable Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport, Associated Justice of the Supreme Court of this state and the representative of this district. R. Allan Stephens of Springfield, Secretary of the state association, will also speak.

The afternoon session, which will begin at 2 o'clock, will be devoted to a discussion of the proposed vote on a state constitutional convention. This discussion will be led by Walter P. Dodd of Chicago, who is probably the best informed lawyer in this state on this important subject.

The present officers of the federation in addition to Mr. Snively are: Henry C. Warner of Dixon, president; Lowell B. Smith of Sycamore, vice president; Charles H. Edwards of Aurora, treasurer; and William J. Emerson of Oregon, member of the Board of Governors of the Illinois State Bar Association for this district.

This meeting promises to be one of the most important that the Federation has ever had. It is understood that the various courts in the district will adjourn so that every lawyer will have an opportunity to attend the meeting.

POETS' CORNER

TRANSIENTS
Our town is overrun these days
With men from every clime,
Additions to their useless gang
Drift in from time to time.

The greater part of this big group
Of lazy, shiftless bums,
Have never hit a lick of work
And won't till Kingdom Comes.

When they hit town, by thumb or freight,
The know just where to go;
It must be an instinct
Possessed by every bo.

It used to be that all these bums
Would sneak around and hide;
By day they'd sleep and bide their time,
And then, by night, they'd ride.

But now, our Uncle Sam has said:
"Come, all you boys with me,
I'll give you each and every one
A bed and board, quite free.

"I'll give you clothes and smokes and such
And movies, books and sports;
You'll never lack for anything,
There's pleasure of all sorts."

So here they come, this motley
horde—
And here they stay, you bet
For Uncle Sam has decreed,

Vain Hunt Made For Missing Girl

With blood stains on a pavement and a torn handkerchief as only clues, police have found no trace of Dorothy Distelhurst, 6, missing since she left her Nashville, Tenn., home for kindergarten Sept. 19. They fear she has been kidnapped and slain or was the victim of a hit-run motorist who hid the body.

Real and Imagined Suspects

One of the most remarkable coincidences of the Lindbergh kidnaping case is the resemblance of Bruno Hauptmann, indicted suspect, to the imaginary kidnaper whose likeness was drawn by a Washington artist for the Department of Justice from descriptions furnished by Dr. John (Jafie) Condon and Joseph Perrone, cab driver, the only persons known to have been in touch with the culprits. The artist's sketches and pictures of Hauptmann in similar poses are shown above for comparison.

That each one is a pet.

I say it is a crying shame
To treat these men so well—
And let our hungry home folks
Just live right on—in hell!

We have so many of our own
Whose needs are grave and many
Why should these men get everything

When our folks get not any?

The transients all may need some help.
But plain old army slums
Was good enough for soldier boys
And it's good enough for bums!

They're more right now, I know,
Than our hungry home folks
here;
But the transients about food
Our folks live in silent fear.

Sweet charity begins at home.
On that we all agree;
One-half that transients cost each day—
Our home folks well would feed.

So why not cut these hoboes down
To army slum right now,
And stop their endless growling
Before they start a row?

They're riding on a gravy train
That Uncle Sam supports,
While more than a thousand home
folks starve—
According to reports.

There's ninety-thousand bucks a month
Spent here in Illinois State.
To keep these hoboes in our midst,
With home folks left to fate.

If Uncle Sam could conscript all
These hoboes and these tramps
You'd see them all light out for home—
Complaining of the camps.

They live the life of Riley now,
Free board and room, and cash;
But threaten them with army life
They'd break out in a rash.

These transients may be transients
In the meaning of the law;
But to me they're chislers and bums—
'Bout the worst I ever saw.

LIBERALS GIVEN FULL CONTROL IN NEW NRA REGIME

Richberg Emerges on Top in Controversy Over New Set-Up

Washington, Sept. 28—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration, in a swift quickening of tempo, has started the autumn attack on recovery problems with several major moves.

Paramount among them is the President's action in placing control of NRA policy in the hands of aides generally regarded as among the more liberal leaders in the government.

With the President back in the White House after summer days, significant events crowded thick and fast. Among them were these: 1. Donald R. Richberg, whose difference of opinion with Hugh S. Johnson attracted wide attention, emerged today as the top man in the industrial recovery drive. To a reorganized industrial emergency committee of six, which Richberg heads, Roosevelt last night gave the tasks of laying down policies for a revamped NRA.

Usual College Professor
2. One-man rule of NRA, from which Administrator Johnson has resigned, passed definitely out of the picture when Roosevelt selected a board consisting of two labor experts and a college professor to administer the blue eagle unit under direction from the White House.

3. Roosevelt struck at "gossip mongers" who would "create fear or encourage panic." In a radio speech last night, he cited a "Wall Street" rumor, which he branded as "wholly untrue," that Secretaries Wallace, Perkins and Morgenthau, with Rexford G. Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, were to retire immediately.

4. The Federal Reserve board—in setting a sliding scale of between 25 and 45 per cent for stock market margins and establishing some what flexible rules for handling accounts—was believed to be aiming at a moderate course that would not unsettle the market.

To increase credit flow of credit were under way. The RFC decided to buy preferred stock and capital notes of trust companies specializing in mortgage loans, and to encourage the creation of new trust companies that would put money out in mortgages. The need for more speed in handling applications for industrial loans was outlined by Morgenthau to chairmen of the industrial advisory committees of the 12 Federal Reserve banks.

6. To critics of "government in business," Wallace made answer. In the current Collier's Weekly, he cited three possible choices: Communism, Fascism, or a government that is "a partner with business labor, agriculture and consumers."

Besides Richberg, the board that will form NRA policy will include Secretary Ickes, Secretary Perkins, Chester Davis, farm administrator, and Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. The chairman of the NRA administrative board, to be chosen by that group later, also will serve with the Richberg committee.

Besides drafting NRA policies, the committee was directed to make recommendations to the President on problems of relief, public works, labor disputes and industrial recovery.

Another New Board
The administrative agency, to be known as the National Industrial Recovery Board, comprises:

Clay Williams, tobacco manufacturer of Winston-Salem, (North Carolina) chairman of Roper's business advisory and planning council and former member of the NRA industrial advisory board.

A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, publishers of financial data, and a former division administrator for NRA.

Sidney Hillman, president of the powerful Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union and member of the NRA labor advisory board. Leon C. Marshall, former law professor at Johns Hopkins University. He is deputy assistant administrator of NRA and was on the old national labor board.

Walter Hamilton, law professor at Yale, chairman of the NRA advisory council, member of the consumers advisory board.

Hauptmann Faces Court for Extortion Plea which they were arrayed against Johnson. While the organization he built up was being drastically changed, Johnson was reported still in seclusion in New York, writing the history of his life.

The active administrator serving under the board will be Colonel George A. Lynch, who has been executive head of NRA during Johnson's absence.

Roosevelt himself is believed to be planning to keep more closely in touch with NRA in the future. He retains authority to pass on all recovery policies before they go into effect. Later he is expected to add a quasi-judicial branch to the new set-up and may place it under the department of justice.

The rise of Richberg and Miss Perkins to the board that will lay down the vital policies of NRA was generally regarded as new evidence that they won the controversy in

NEW DEAL MADE ISSUE IN MOST OF THE STATES

Republicans are Bearing Down On It With All They Have

Washington, Sept. 28. (AP)—Spectacular contests over the "New Deal" are being fought in most of the 32 states where 34 senators are to be elected in November.

Leaders of the Republican organization, basing the political future of their party on opposition to the "New Deal," have issued an urgent call to their candidates to bear down on the Roosevelt policies with everything they have.

Generally, the old guard Republicans have responded. But independent Republicans, on the whole, are approving parts of the Roosevelt program that fit their ideas of government and are frowning on some of the Republican policies.

After Old Guard
Happy in the knowledge that they already are assured of a majority in the next Senate, Democratic leaders say they are going to eliminate a number of old guard Republican Senators besides retaining all their own seats.

Some observers see signs that the Democratic drive may menace the seat of some progressive Republicans, who have been friendly to the Roosevelt administration. Postmaster General Parley, after a swing through the northwest, predicted "the Republican party in the Senate will sink to the lowest level since Buchanan's administration."

In the present Senate, Republicans fill 35 seats, of which 16 are at stake in the November elections. Eleven of the 16 are now held by old guard Republicans and among these Democrats say they will make gains.

Support Johnson
In addition, Democrat candidates are making strong bids for victory over the remainder, excepting Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California independent Republican, whose election is assured. He received both Republican and Democratic nominations when the administration threw its support behind him.

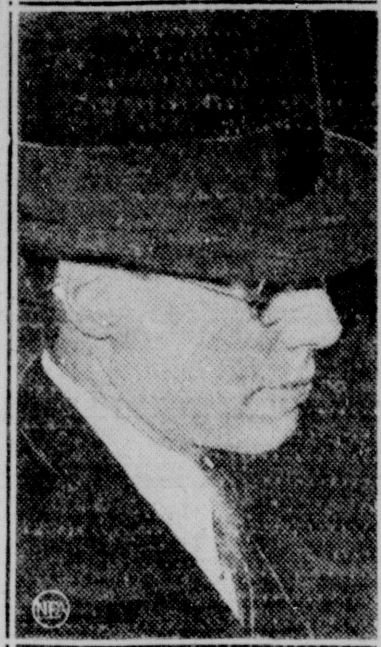

Events took a different course in the cases of Senators Robert M. LaFollette in Wisconsin, Republican independent, now running on a Progressive ticket; Senator Bronson Cutting, New Mexico Republican independent, and Senator Shipstead (F-L, Minn.) all of whom campaigned for President

Aids Lindbergh Kidnap Search

Sensational developments in the Lindbergh kidnaping case brought federal officials, state and city police heads hurriedly into action in New York City and here Francis Fay, head of the New York office of the Department of Justice, is shown as he arrived at police court to confer with other high officials.

 This will be the last Sunday of the month and the last Sunday in this quarter, every member of the school should be present if possible.

"The Spot You Cannot Change" will be the pastor's subject Sunday morning at 9:30. All are invited to this service.

"Asleep in Zion," an interesting and attractive play will be given Sunday night at 7:00. The characters are:

American woman, Alice Mae Sheller.
 Japanese woman, Harriet McWethy.
 Chinese woman, Viola Butterbaugh.
 Hindu woman, Gerland Via.

African woman, Lois Butterbaugh.

The play illustrates the American woman in luxury, pride and fashion, while the other women envy the beautiful American woman because of their poverty, slavery, disgrace and shame.

The American woman who has been dreaming awakens to a sense of her duty and dedicates her life to do missionary work.

There should be a packed house to hear this splendid play. All are invited.

'Rescued' Cattle Die of Hunger

Striking support of charges of the Memphis Humane Society that federal relief cattle are being shipped to Mississippi river islands only to die of starvation is given in this picture. In the background, on the creek rim, a dead cow is shown where it became mired in the bog and in the foreground is another about to succumb. Hundreds of cattle already have died of hunger, society officials charge.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 BOOTS RAEBURN, 15, slopes with RUSS LUND, swimming instructor. When he goes to Florida, promising to send for her later, she goes to work in a department store.

Russ does not write. Months pass and then comes word that he has been killed in a motorboat accident.

Boots meets DENIS FENWAY, young author, and EDWARD VAN SCIVER, wealthy and socially prominent. She is in love with Denis and jealous of beautiful KAY CHILLINGFORD.

Boots gets a job in a book store and goes home to live in order to help her parents financially. Edward repeatedly urges her to marry him and finally she agrees. On Christmas Day they go for a walk in the fog. Edward is badly hurt saving her from a reckless driver.

Mrs. Raeburn receives news that she has a winning ticket in a lottery.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV

IF Verity won, said Miss Florida, awarded the lottery ticket would be worth something "in the neighborhood" of $150,000.

"Not that I think there's a slight chance, even, of his winning," Mrs. Raeburn put in with a smile. She had a wire from some totally unknown people at Bay Shore, Long Island, who wanted to buy a half share in her interest for $1500. It all seemed faintly preposterous.

The ticket, just as it stood, had already netted them $3500.

The old shingled house was electric with expectation these days. Old friends dropped in to congratulate the Raeburns. Boots' mother fairly glowed. She had lost years, it seemed, with the stroke of luck which had befallen them.

Denis came over to congratulate them and he and Boots had a few unsatisfactory moments together alone in the living room while the girl's mother was called to the telephone.

"What are their plans?" She smiled, shrugging. "They're trying to rent the house. Mother says she will have a fling on the $3500 no matter what comes. She wants to go to California. We've had people streaming through all week, telling us what's wrong with the house. It's a very humble experience."

He was staring at her oddly, intently.

"What on earth's the matter?" "Sorry, I didn't mean to be rude. Do you know you've grown up to be a very grand young woman these days?"

She flushed.

"Must you always poke fun at me?"

"But I'm not. I'm deadly serious. His dark brows were drawn together. He was so close to her that she could see the nervous pulse beating in his lean brown throat. She longed to say, "Why can't we really be friends? Why must there always be this armed truce between us?" But she was silent.

"Look going well?"

He threw up his hand in a characteristic, impatient gesture. "Rotten. Haven't had an idea for weeks. I'm going to seed."

"Why do you stay on here then?" she questioned boldly.

"Celebrating?"

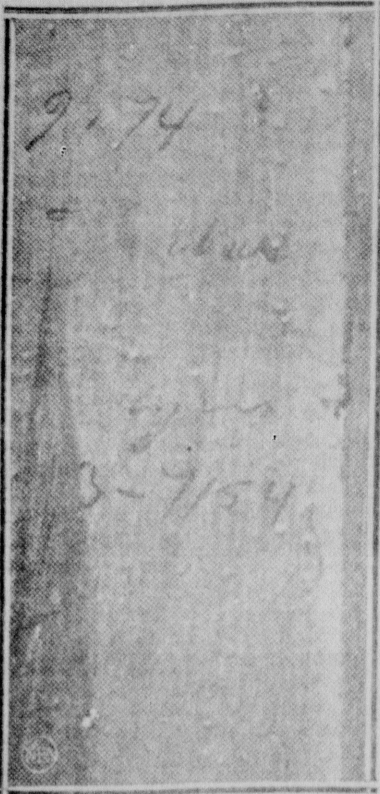

"I'll say! I didn't have time to buy a hat, though. On every important occasion in a woman's life she requires a new hat."

"This one is all right." There was something warm and intimate in the gaze he bent upon her.

"This old thing?" She touched the brim of the brown straw disparagingly.

"Oh, I'm comfortable. Besides—" "Besides what?"

DAMAGING CLEWS THAT WEAVE NET CLOSELY AROUND LINDBERGH KIDNAPING SUSPECT

This small piece of board is one of the major clues that tightens the net around Bruno Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap suspect. Cleverly fitted over a door in a closet in the Hauptmann home, it bore the smudged street address and telephone number of "Jafsie." (Photo copyright, 1934, News Syndicate Co., from Acme.)

The ladder down which Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr. was taken from his nurse's to his death is shown here, being inspected by officers, as one of the clues on which Bruno Hauptmann is held as a suspect. The ladder is of the kind of wood to which the prisoner had access in a Bronx lumber yard.

Here is a profile view of Bruno Hauptmann, taken as he sat in a Bronx court room, waiting arraignment on the charge of extortion. It shows him as the stolid, emotionless type, which he has proven to be in the hours of relentless grilling to which he has been subjected since he was arrested as the kidnap suspect.

This view is an artist's conception of the man who received the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom money from Dr. John Condon at a Bronx cemetery. It was drawn by a Department of Justice artist from descriptions given by "Jafsie" and the cab driver who was paid $1 to carry a note while the negotiations were under way.

One of the most important clues in the hunt for the Lindbergh kidnaper-slayer is the footprint shown in the upper panel, photographed upon its discovery under the child's window the morning after the abduction. Below is shown one of Hauptmann's shoes which police declare is nearly a "match" for the print.

Finding of $13,750 of the Lindbergh ransom money in a garage used by Hauptmann was one of the most damaging links in the evidence woven against the German carpenter. Here are shown New York police officers as they inspected the money and the tin box in which it had been placed when buried in the dirt floor.

A clue held of high value which seems to connect Hauptmann with the kidnaping was provided by nails found in the suspect's home, of same make and type as those used in the kidnaping ladder. The nails, in barrel and can, are shown here after they had been brought to the district attorney's office.
